

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A method for braking two vehicle wheels of one axle, in which the value of the brake pressure in the wheel-brake cylinder allocated to the first wheel is linked with the value of the brake pressure in the wheel-brake cylinder allocated to the second wheel.

5 The essence of the invention is that the linkage is given via the hydraulic pressure differentials dropping at the respective intake valves.